FOREWORD

The California Highway Patrol is concerned primarily with protection of life and property of the public highways, and as an organization, we can be no less concerned with the protection of the lives of our employees than we are with those of the general public.

This guide is intended to augment initial cadet driver training and to serve as a reference for enforcement driving techniques for field officers in the Department. The subject matter is not intended to be all-inclusive; therefore, field input is solicited to expand the content through future revisions.

Permission to reprint the material in this publication is granted with attribution of authorship of the California Highway Patrol.
