FOREWORD

The traffic congestion and air pollution problems facing California today have resulted in programs and incentives intended to encourage state employees to use alternate means of transportation to commute to and from work.

The purpose of this manual is to provide the information, assistance, and guidance necessary to establish policies and programs which assists employees in commute reduction efforts.

The objective of this manual is to ensure California Highway Patrol employees are made aware of commute alternatives and the benefits available to them. This knowledge will help create awareness among employees of the importance of improving air quality by using alternate means of transportation.
